

NLP Master Practitioner

Certified NLP Master Practitioner Course

What will becoming a master practitioner give me?

You've already done the NLP practitioner course and you've experienced the enormous level of change that this learning can bring about and you want to know more. You want to go deeper. You want to take on this next challenge and truly master NLP for yourself.

The Master Practitioner course takes you on to that next step in your journey, making the transition from the basic building blocks to a breadth of understanding that has the power to re shape your thinking giving you full mastery of your personal and professional life.

What will I learn?

How to Develop Your Thinking

Learn about the finer workings of human thought, how to enhance the patterns of your thinking and how this connectedness with yourself has an impact on the way in which others miraculously seem to be different.

Learn the process behind your behaviour and that of others

You will learn how to uncover the world that is your unconscious mind. All the resources you could ever need lie there waiting to be discovered. You will learn how to access this resource and discover the excellence that is you. And in that knowledge lays the discovery of excellence that you will see in others.

Discover the real power of Modelling.

'How?' becomes your new default NLP question to find out how you perform so well, how does person x achieve consistent results. What is that difference? Ask them and yourself, "How do you do that?" On the whole the answer will be, "No idea I just do it."

So you will have the honour, and it is an honour to discover another's excellence through this process we call the Modelling Project. During Master Practitioner training you will learn the 'how to' of Modelling, enabling you to recognise excellence in someone and most importantly teach this to others and unlock the same in yourself. This project will be created by you in between Module one and Module two. Giving you plenty of time and access to the trainers should you need further support which is given via emails.

This element of the course gives you the opportunity to create your own Modelling Project which you will submit to the trainers prior to attending the second Module and the sharing of your project with the group.

Gain advanced mastery of language

Developing your language skills is one of the most effective ways of improving your connections, from a chat at the checkout to negotiations in the board room. At Master level you will discover a wide range of complex and powerful linguistic patterns and techniques. You will uncover the magic and gentle way metaphor can be used to support communication when conscious language creates a full stop in thinking. And to understand how all that we say is metaphorical, "Words change worlds"

Determine your personal purpose

Simple but fundamental, this aspect of Master training works to put you in touch with your core self. Here you will uncover what it is that is central to you and clarify your unique purpose, and know that there is a truth about you that endures.

Construct your future

True success lies in knowing oneself and acting truthfully on this knowledge. Having uncovered your identity and purpose we look at the techniques that enable us to build on this to realise our desired futures.

We will teach you the NLP tools that you can use for yourself and for others to remove life's obstacles and achieve your dreams.

You will hear and be exposed to many examples of excellence, people like you and I living extraordinary lives. People who in their own unique way live life their way, an honour I can assure you.

So how will I pull all my learning together?

It is at this stage on Module two that you will be chosen to work with another specific person in your group as decided by the trainers.

To work with another person 'in the moment' when they come to see you and discuss what is current for them is the reality of any connection. Of course conversation is not scripted and delivered from notes. When did you go for coffee and get out your notes before engaging! You will have plenty of time to prepare and then work with what comes up. As an NLP Master Practitioner you will blend and weave your skilful linguistic magic for the benefit of the person you are talking to, in the absolute belief you can effect change for that person. You will be assessed while doing this and remember, "There is no failure only feedback"

Then it will be your turn, you will become the client and bring what is current for you and allow your partner to explore the role of being a Master Practitioner.

The ultimate culmination of this process will be in the feedback. Without feedback we live in the dark, stuck in being right or being wrong we limit our connections because - well, we already just know everything don't we! We never expose ourselves to the truth of what could be and so blunder on in our own self righteousness..... Potentially!!

My good friend Kate McCartney once said to me 'To receive feedback is to be given a gift'. So embrace that feedback, that gift, own it and give thanks.

And feedback will absolutely be very much part of your experience, we will explain how this works in business and in our day to day connections. As with all that is delivered skilfully there is an art and a big difference in how this is achieved. You give feedback from the heart.

This is really just your beginning. Following the Master Practitioner course and your emerging new knowing I wonder what will be for you and your new life, because there is so much more, as you will find out...

A special way of working

The Master Practitioner course brings together a very special group of people every time. There is a transformative element to this course that makes this time spent together truly unique. One of the key components to the success of the course is our closeness. Being together and working together over these 10 days creates a powerful learning environment. Those attending the course are dedicated to furthering themselves through NLP and this like mindedness has led to many wonderful business relationships and friendships being formed. People often stay together at the end of the day and share a meal and continue the excitement that is their new found reality of what is possible.

Your learning materials for the Master Practitioner course.

Before you attend the NLP Master Practitioner course you will be given a special set of learning materials to study from prior to the training. These materials are designed to walk you through each of the topics we will be covering, giving you a firm grounding in the Master Practitioner resources and showing you how they can be applied.

The full portfolio of resources is included within the price of the practitioner course and is yours to keep and work from.

Our training is a combination of experiential learning, cognitive dissonance, demonstration and practice with direct input and feedback from the trainers, and you will also work in small groups exploring and practicing the topics interactively.

Course duration

The course is 10 days in its entirety, divided into two Modules lasting five intensive days each.

We leave a period of time between the two Modules in order that you assimilate all the information covered from the first Module. It also gives you the time to work on your Modelling Project which you will be preparing for the second Module.

Course accreditation

The course will provide you with a globally recognised certification as a certified NLP Master Practitioner that is accredited by the AIP (Association of Integrative Psychology). In addition to this ten day course you are expected to engage in some self-paced learning, this should equate to around 50 hours, and be a mixture of research, study and practice.

To reserve your place

We limit this course to small numbers to preserve the close relationship we want to foster during the training and of course this means that spaces sell out very quickly. We recommend that you book early to ensure your place. If you would like further clarification about coming on the Master Practitioner course, we would be delighted to hear from you.
